Title: Press Release Collection

Name of creator: Jaguar Cars Limited

Dates of creation of material: August 1945 to 2016

Level of description: fonds

Extent: 23 boxes

Administrative history: The original company was established at Blackpool in Lancashire, on 4 September 1922, as a partnership between William Lyons (1901-1985, knighted 1956) and William Walmsley (1891-1960), trading as the Swallow Side Car Company. 1926, change of name to Swallow Side Car and Coach Building Company. 1928, moved from Blackpool to Foleshill, Coventry. Swallow Coachbuilding was registered as a limited company in 1930. SS Cars Limited was incorporated on 10 October 1933, with a public share issue in January 1934. Walmsley left the company at this point. The sidecar business was devolved to Swallow Sidecars (1935) Limited, which was sold to the Helliwell Group in December 1944. In 1939, Motor Panels (Coventry) Limited was bought by SS Cars Limited but was sold in 1943 to Rubery Owen.

Jaguar Cars Limited was incorporated on 11 November 1937, and in April 1945 became the main operating company, with SS Cars Limited as a subsidiary. In 1952, the company moved to Browns Lane, Allesley, Coventry. In 1954, a subsidiary company was established in the USA, as the Jaguar Cars North American Corporation.

The following companies were taken over by Jaguar Cars Limited: The Daimler Company in May 1960, including its subsidiaries such as Lanchester, Barker and Hooper, which were all bought from the BSA Group; Guy Motors Limited, Wolverhampton, in 1961; Coventry Climax Engines Limited, Coventry, in 1963; Henry Meadows Limited, Wolverhampton, in 1964.

In July 1966, Jaguar Cars Limited and its subsidiary companies merged with the British Motor Corporation (BMC) to form a joint holding company, British Motor Holdings (BMH). In January 1968, BMH merged with Leyland to form British Leyland Motor Corporation which underwent several reorganisations and was de facto nationalised in 1975. Sir William Lyons had retired in May 1972. Jaguar Cars Limited had ceased to exist as an operating company by 1 January 1973 and then became part of British Leyland (UK) Limited, also known as BL UK Limited, later BL Cars Limited. Jaguar became part of BL's Specialist Car Division which in 1978 was re-named Jaguar Rover Triumph. Coventry Climax, Guy and Henry Meadows were assigned to other divisions of the BL group. In 1983, Jaguar was a founder member of the Jaguar Daimler Heritage Trust.

In 1984, BL sold Jaguar (including Daimler) via a public share issue on the London Stock Exchange in a new company, Jaguar Cars plc, which had a subsidiary operating company, Jaguar Cars Limited, and a US subsidiary,

Jaguar Cars Inc. Jaguar had an interest in two joint operations, Venture Pressings Limited together with GKN (1988-1994), and Jaguar Sport together with Tom Walkinshaw (1988-c.1994), with a subsidiary company XJ220 Limited.

In December 1989, Jaguar Cars plc accepted an offer for its shares from the Ford Motor Company, and became a wholly owned subsidiary of Ford. Subsequently, following other acquisitions by Ford including Land Rover in 2000, from 2001 Jaguar, Land Rover, Aston Martin and Volvo were merged to form the Premier Automotive Group (PAG), which was a Ford subsidiary. In 2006, with the closure of the Browns Lane factory, the registered office of Jaguar Cars was moved to Whitley, Coventry. In 2008, Ford sold Jaguar and Land Rover to the Tata Group, which established a wholly-owned subsidiary under the name of Jaguar Land Rover, with headquarters at Gaydon in Warwickshire.

Scope and content: Press Releases from 1945 through to 2011. These document all the significant events in Jaguar and its associated companies including Daimler, Guy, Coventry Climax. Over the years, they cover many important launches including: the Mark VII; "Mark I"; E-type; Mark X; Mark II; S-type; 420; XJ6 Series 1 ,2 and 3; XJ-S and XJS; XJ40; XJ220; X300; X308; X350; XK and XK8; XF; and the new XJ.

There are extensive organisational and personnel announcements, covering all the management changes as Jaguar ownership progressed though: the British Motor Holdings merger, the British Leyland days, Jaguar Independence under Sir John Egan, the sale to Ford Motor company, the Premier Automotive Group organisation and, finally, the sale in 2008 to Tata.

There are also releases and photos covering Sir William Lyons' retirement in 1972 and his successor FRW "Lofty" England, the appointment of John Egan, Bill Hayden, Nick Scheele, Jonathan Browning, Wolfgang Reitzle, Ian Callum, Bibiana Boerio, and Ralf Speth.

Also included are some complete press packs (including photos) covering the XJ6 from September 1968, the V12 E-type from March 1971, the Series 3 XJ, XJ40, C-type 40th anniversary in December 1991, the XJ220 in 1991 and the launch of the new Whitley Engineering Centre in May 1988.

Many of the Press releases bear the British Leyland logo and include news on Rover Triumph and Austin Morris products.

Jaguar's Racing successes at Le Mans are documented, as are some of the unsuccessful F1 attempts.

System of arrangement: Chronological, with the exception of folders PR/001 and PR/002, which retain the original order, as compiled by the Company before transfer to the Archive.

Access conditions: Open

Conditions governing reproduction: No restrictions on copying or quotation other than statutory regulations and preservation concerns

Immediate source of acquisition: Some items sourced directly from Jaguar's PR department, others of unknown origin

Archivist's note: Fonds level description created by L. Thomas in October 2013. Additional description added by G. Gregory, May 2016. Additional description added by J. Shortland, June 2019.
